Mosquito control auction reaps benefits for county

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors approved payment of $6,635 for purchases of equipment made at the disbanded tri-county Mosquito Control Commission auction.

Purchase distributions and prices are: Parks and Recreation, McLeod Park—1984 F150 truck ($900), 1987 GMC 1500 truck ($2,900), mosquito spray unit ($450) and conference table with chairs ($75);

Road and Bridge Department—beach crew, 1975 Jeep 760 4-wheel drive pickup truck ($750);

—road crew, 1984 truck ($1,000);

—maintenance, mosquito spray rig ($110) and air floor jack ($450).

The board approved a $500 to $700 contract with Compton Engineering for a plan for partial closure of the Pearlington landfill.

Though the landfill remains presently closed, the board requested capacity testing for estimation of future use.

SOCCER COMPLEX

Tom Demboski, representing Bay Area Soccer, reported the completion of survey work at the Hancock County Human Resources Complex.

He said the group received U.S. Army Corp of Engineers clearance that the land proposed for the Scott Demboski Memorial Soccer Complex contains no wetlands.

Demboski requested county assistance in land clearing of some wooded area as well as construction of a gravel road.

Board attorney Gerald Gex said the land lease agreement would be ready upon inclusion of assurances that the soccer field would be made available for use by all Hancock County residents.

Graduates at last!

St. Stanislaus held its commencement ceremony Saturday at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church. Seniors gathered at St. Stanislaus prior to the ceremony to bid each other a final farewell before officially becoming graduates of the Class of 1993. Other graduation services were held Saturday night for Bay High School and Hancock High School, Saturday afternoon for Our Lady Academy and Friday night for Coast Episcopal High School.(Echo staff photo by Liz Haas)

Post office comes to Diamondhead

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

The Diamondhead Community will enjoy the convenience of a local post office beginning June 14, via two industrious businesswomen.

April Clement and Brenda Smith, owners and operators of "We Can Do That Services," were awarded a contract Monday for the operation of a Diamondhead post office.

The two former corporate secretaries expressed joyful astonishment at their own good fortune.

"It was a shot in the dark," Clement stated. "We didn't think we stood a chance."

According to former Diamondhead Business and Professional Association (DHBPA) president George Cassis, DHBPA began correspondence with the United States Postal Service three years ago.

Cassis said the DHBPA

Lifestyle changes

Changing your eating habits for life

BY LIZ HAAS

Many people feel anxiety with the arrival of summer, worrying about how they will look in a bathing suit.

This could be a time when people develop bad eating habits, such as starvation and crash diets, in an attempt to lose weight quickly.

"The best way to lose weight effectively is to change your lifestyle to develop more healthy eating habits," said Ann S. Andry, clinical dietitian with Hancock Medical Center.

"People have to realize that the slower you lose the weight the longer it's going to stay off," said Dr. Bert Chevis.

"Losing a few pounds a month is good," he said, "But people often don't realize that they're looking at the rest of their lives to do it, not just to fit in a bikini for the summer."

CRASH/FAD DIETS

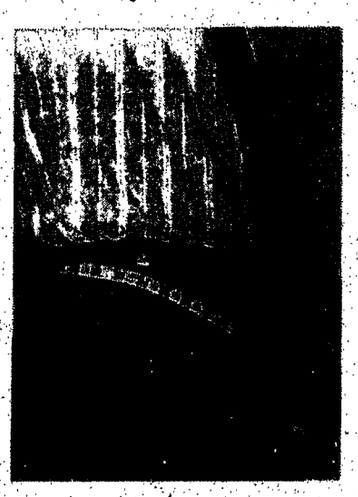
"I don't recommend expensive weight loss clinics or fasting programs because they have a short-term success rate," said Andry.

Andry said fasting or an extremely low calorie diet is not good because your metabolism adapts to what you put in your body, and when you starve yourself over a prolonged period, you start using your lean muscle mass as energy which breaks down your muscles.

Chevis said, "You're body recognizes that it is in a starvation state and reacts by storing more fat, rather than losing it."

Andry said diet pills are an artificial means of losing weight.

"Things you can get over the counter are usually diuretics that make you lose water.



"I don't recommend prescription drugs either for weight loss because any type of controlled substance becomes a crutch and when you get off of them, you still haven't changed your lifestyle," she said.

"And if you don't change your lifestyle, it will come back," she said.

Andry recommends people be wary of diets that eliminate any particular food group because they are not good diets.

"You need a well balanced diet with all food groups represented, and drink plenty of liquids, especially water," she said.

EFFECTIVE WEIGHT LOSS

"Changing your eating habits has got to be your decision, you can't do it for any other reason than for yourself.

"You must also have the desire to commit yourself to it and the time to learn about healthy eating, to exercise and prepare healthy meals," she said.

For those who have no idea where to begin, Andry suggests getting a notebook and recording everything you eat and drink for three days. Then, take a look at it and tune into what you are putting into your body.

Andry said, "Sometimes eating is such a natural thing we don't even realize exactly what we are putting in our bodies."

Reflections
On Life
By Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

The desensitized generation

Over a million unwanted dogs and cats are euthanized each year we are told. We know exactly what it means to be euthanized, don't we? It means that they are put to death gently, mercifully, with a special view to avoiding undue pain.

Can you believe that animals are being put to death in humane fashion while human fetuses are being destroyed with seldom the slightest thought of humaness or consideration?

The Humane Society and many individuals constantly seek and use painless methods to terminate irrational beasts. Yet, many of the same people who fawn over animals are not lifting an eyebrow as human fetuses are killed in considerable pain.

Has the demon of abortion sunk to such depths that animals are frequently ranked above humans in their manner of being dispatched permanently from this earth?

Feticide through the burning, agonizing action of saline solution, through the crudeness of suctioning out the womb, or through fetal slicing and dismemberment are common. It is nauseating to visualize the pain involved in such procedures.

No one can claim with reason that abortion is a way of euthanizing human fetuses. Euthanasia aims solely at easing a person or animal out of a painful situation. Abortion's purpose is not to escape pain but simply to terminate life.

In recent years, there are those efficient medical scientists who have devised a killer pill, or abortifacient, which kills a fetus in its most initial state of development. Neither saline solution nor anything else is necessary.

Thus, RU 2 has been imported into this country from Europe and introduced as an abortifacient. Now abortionists can finally claim they have something which resembles a euthanizing agent, though this does not seem to concern them.

However, the manner of feticide is totally secondary to the main issue which is the act of killing. It is this act itself which is cold in its execution and even more callous in its defense by people who otherwise disclaim all violence.

It is this insensitive attitude toward the act of killing which has been desensitizing all people, especially our children and youth, for the past 20 years.

Together with TV and cinema violence, whose deadly influence is being documented by study after study, this lethal fetus/holocaust complex is numbing the sense of humaness, morality and respect for life in a whole generation.

They are unmitigated hypocrites who champion abortion and simultaneously lament the wanton murders on and off the streets of our cities around the United States.

Why should these people register shock that a Scotman touring New Orleans was shot dead for his videocamera?

Why should the protagonists of abortion be appalled when a German frau touring Miami was beaten and run over by young thugs in a car before the eyes of her mother and children?

The mind-boggling violence among the gangs of Los Angeles, the chilling series of riots after the Rodney King fiasco, and the crimes and bloodcurdling executions connected with drug dealing are but offshoots of "white-collar" violence.

"You reap what you sow," the old folks tell us, echoing the sage warning of the Master himself. Yes, we see the savage harvest from violence sown in medical clinics and on TV.

United Methodist Church conference scheduled for June 7-10 in Jackson

The annual Mississippi Conference of the United Methodist Church will take place June 7-10 in Jackson at the Mississippi Trade Mart Center. The conference is the statewide legislative meeting of delegates of United Methodist churches.

Bishop M.L. "Jack" Meadors

Theme for the 1993 conference is "Celebrate and Witness." Bishop Marshall L. Meadors Jr., who will preside over the meeting, said the theme represents what I think and feel about what an annual conference should be."

Business matters, worship and fellowship are all on the agenda. "This is truly a time of celebration and thanksgiving for those of us who are United Methodists."

More than 2,000 delegates from the 1,300 United Methodist churches around Mississippi will take part — Meadors' first since replacing Bishop Robert Morgan.

Churches from this area to be represented are Main Street and Valenca C. Jones in Bay St. Louis; Waveland and St. Rock in Waveland; Clermont Harbor; Pearlington and Holmes Chapel in Pearlington; and First Methodist, St. Mark, DeLisle, in Pass Christian; also the new church in Diamondhead will be represented.

Nightly worship services will be at 7:30 at the Trade Mart Center, with retired Atlanta Bishop Earnest Fitzgerald, now of Winston-Salem, N.C., delivering the sermons. Meadors will lead the opening worship service — a memorial service — at 2:30 p.m. Monday.

He will also preside over Thursday afternoon's final session in which the 1993 pastoral appointments will be announced.

'Moving through Depression' workshop offered in June

During the month of June on Fridays at 2 p.m. at Serenity, 12½ Main Street, Bay St. Louis, there will be a class open to the public which deals with depression.

Topics discussed will be how depression differs from sadness and the grief process, characteristics and symptoms of depression, when to get professional help for depression, and ways to nurture oneself socially, emotionally and spiritually to help one through depression.

The class will be taught by Dorothy Porter. Porter is a registered nurse with 30 years experience. She obtained a master's degree in counseling psychology from USM in 1979 and is currently pursuing licensure as a counselor in the State of Mississippi. In October she opened a private practice with specialty in relaxation exercises, grief work, guided imagery and pain management.

To register for the class, call 467-6905 or 467-3061. The class is free and will meet each of the four Fridays in June from 2-3:30 p.m.

St. Vincent Thrift Store

St. Clare Conference, Society of St. Vincent de Paul operates a thrift store, City Hall Annex, Coleman Avenue. It is open Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 10 until 3, and Saturday, 10 a.m. until noon.

All proceeds benefit the needy regardless of race or religion. An information and referral service is available from 1:30 until 3:30 p.m. on Wednesday. For additional information, call 467-0703.

In Memoriam

In Loving Memory of
EULA SIMMS MITCHELL
Born August 26, 1919
Died June 2, 1990

My Dear Mother,

It has been three long years since you left us all to go home to be with God.

If there was any way I could take your place I would. I remember a song you liked, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." Now you are at peace with your Father.

All the love and joy you gave to all of your children, we will never be able to pay you back. That is why I know in my heart why God carried you home to be a sweet mother in heaven. Amen.

Sleep on my mother, we all love you and miss you, but God loves you most of all. Amen. Alleluia. Amen.

Roses are red, violets are blue, mothers are seet like honey dew.

Demboski assured the board the complex was intended for the promotion of the sport of soccer, and participation would be open to all of the county's children.

Gex said the lease would be ready by the next board meeting on June 7.

Hester Plauche', vice-president of the Hancock County Tourism and Gaming Assoication, requested a donation of $2,500 for promotion of the forthcoming Miss Teen USA Pageant.

Plauche said the Tourism and Gaming Association is donating $5,000 in exchange for a guarantee that certain promotional shots of the girls are taken in Hancock County.

He added the pageant is viewed in 22 countries.

short tempered; and just think, they had millions of dollars and hundreds of jobs involved."

requested a post office, at that time, but received no meaningful response.

Cassis reported he then wrote to the office of Senator Trent Lott, asking DHBPA correspondence be forwarded to postal officials.

Still receiving no satisfactory response, Cassis said he wrote directly to Lott, requesting a personal meeting with the Senator and a postal official.

Cassis traveled to Washington, D.C., and while there received confirmation of a designated Diamondhead zip code from William T. Johnstone, deputy director of the federal department.

Though he received no commitment for the establishment of a Diamondhead Post Office, this March the U.S. Postal Service released bid packages for a contract postal unit.

Clement and Smith received a bid package literally days before the bid due date.

The Bay St. Louis post office was out of packages, the two women explained, so they called the postal service in Memphis, Tenn.

When the packet arrived the women reported they had just one week to complete it.

"We had not a clue how to bid," Clement commented, "but we began working out figures right away."

Smith interjected, "The first day we were on the phone until 11 that night comparing figures."

The women placed all other work on hold for the next few days while they searched for a suitable location and made calls for price estimates on overhead costs.

"I think five minutes before closing the bid we made a change," Smith stated.

Both women said they gained a new respect for the corporate executives they used to see stressed out prior to a bid closing.

"The worst is waiting for a reply," Smith added. "I now understand why people I used to work for became

The first news they received was a letter advising their bid as "most favorable," but now the postal service wanted to see proof of bonding.

They went to a bank, and when the bank asked for disclosure of their husbands' personal finances, they said, "No." This was their business venture and they wished to do it on their own.

"We said, 'We are women. We can do this,'" Clement related.

Unfortunately, their secretarial business was not yet one year old, and what they owned with their husbands did not qualify solely as theirs.

The women learned a financial lesson, and personally financed the bond.

The Diamondhead Post Office will include all postal services excluding imprinted bulk mail and receipt of registered mail.

Clement explained, "Residents can come by and request registered mail be re-delivered, but since it is the most secure mail handled by the post office, we cannot keep it. To pick it up, a resident will still have to go to Bay St. Louis.

"We will be able to send all other types of bulk mail, but we won't have a machine for the imprinted type."

The women said they may not have the post office boxes installed by opening day. Delivery of the boxes may delay the immediate offering of that service.

They plan to have a copy machine for public use, and they intend to eventually offer a wrap and pack service.

Their secretarial service will be located in the rear of the building. While one operates postal services, the other will manage the "We Can Do That" services.

The post office will be open Mondays through Fridays, 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Saturdays, 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

The office will be located on West Aloha Drive, immediately east of the Diamondhead Community entrance.

Walking through the future Diamondhead Post Office building, Clement and Smith beamed with excitement.

As the two women stood arm-and-arm, they stated, "We can do this."

And they are.

Boating safety classes offered

National Safe Boating Week will be celebrated on the Gulf Coast June 6-12.

To help celebrate this occasion, Flotilla 35 of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary is offering a free boating safety and seamanship course starting Thursday, June 3 at the West Harrison County Occupational Training Center, 21500 "B" Street-Espy Ave. at Pineville Rd. (Industrial Park), Long Beach.

Registration is at 7 p.m. Thursday, June 3. Classes will be held every Monday and Thursday from 7-9 p.m.

Trained USCG auxiliary instructors will teach two lessons per night for a total of 12 lessons.

Courses in power boat and sailing will be covered, as well as courses on boat handling, legal requirements, navigation rules, aids to navigation, piloting, marine engines, marlinspike seamanship, basic sailing, trail learning, weather, radio telephone and basic rules of the road.

The Coast Guard urges all family members to attend these classes. It is not necessary to own a boat to participate. For information or directions, call 452-2487 or 452-9344.

Power Squadron offers safe boating classes

Mississippi Power Squadron will offer safe boating classes at Pass Christian Yacht Club beginning Tuesday, June 8.

The seven sessions will be conducted from 7-9 p.m. at a minimal cost of $5 (facility rental) plus $25 (instructional materials). Course materials include a compass, text book and course plotting tool.

For additional information, call Dr. Terry Neumaster, 875-7226, or Baxter Wade, 832-7798.

Biloxi Casino Magic opens

Biloxi Casino Magic will open Saturday, June 5.

There will be a VIP party by invitation only from 2 to 5 p.m.

The casino will be open to the general public at 5 p.m.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

This will be the third year in a row for the area Church Softball League.

All churches interested in having a team participate in the league, which includes boys and girls ages 7-14, should contact Michelle Dailey, 467-1298; or Louis Dunklin, 467-3361.

Last year there were some 15 churches participating with a total of 10 teams with more than 150 players.

There is a need for coaches, managers, umpires, concessions and scorekeepers. Call the above individuals about that, too.

I know my church had a team last year, and all of the players really enjoyed themselves.

I have talked to several others who played, and they were thrilled at how much fun was had by all in the Church Softball League.

Thursday at 10 a.m. is the season's big grand opening of Buccaneer State Parks Bay Water Park and Wave Pool.

The wave pool has been very popular for many years at Buccaneer, and last year a giant water slide was added to the complex.

Greg Smith, park manager, a few weeks ago indicated he would be expecting a record number of folks to use the park's facilities.

To encourage local use at Buccaneer's Bay Water Park and Wave Pool, season passes will again be issued this year.

Stu Rayburn, assistant park manager, said a season pass for a family of four is $139.95, and an individual pass is $42.95. Passes are good through Labor Day and include the use of a tube. There is a kiddie pool for the younger generation, too.

The Water Park and Wave Pool is now open seven days a week from 11 a.m. to 6:45 p.m.

The menu at the concession has been expanded this year.

The wave pool is a sight for those who have never witnessed one in action and really fun for those who use it.

Lockers are also again available at the wave pool.

The height and turns on the big water slide makes me want to put on my bathing suit.

Buccaneer State Park is located on South Beach Boulevard, Waveland, just before Clermont Harbor.

Innovative school reforms

A community in Illinois plans some startling changes to its educational system this coming September.

According to "State Legislatures," a monthly publication of the National Conference of State Legislatures, the proposed plan for the school system will turn the entire town of Bensenville into a campus.

Among the innovations:

* Schools will be open all year long.

* Classes will be on a flexible schedule using a 7-day week.

* The latest technology will be emphasized.

While students will be expected to attend traditional classroom sessions, they also will spend time in business, industry, museums, libraries and government offices.

Their education will come not only from books but also from librarians, business people, members of service organizations and others in the community or "real world."

The Bensenville, Illinois, experience bears watching.

Memorial Day

By G.V. (Sonny) Montgomery
Chairman
U.S. House of Representatives
Committee on Veterans Affairs

To those who have served in uniform or watched others march off to war, the images of duty and sacrifice on home and foreign soil are diverse. The rigors of boot camp. A husband, son or daughter waving from a departing ship. A letter from a foxhole. The last breath of a buddy. The carnage of battle. The selflessness and comforting words of a nurse. Former prisoners of war dashing across the tarmac to be reunited with families. A photograph on the mantle. A salute. A simple white cross.

These are the images that will be invoked in small towns and major cities, in rural graveyards and national cemeteries, in the privacy of homes and courthouse square observances, in public display and personal reflection as we sustain the tradition of honoring our fallen heroes on the last Monday in May, Memorial Day.

Though our losses have been considerable — more than one million have died in military service — Memorial Day is not intended to be a mournful time, but rather a time to rejoice. It is an opportunity to recount the mettle and indomitable spirit of those who have humbled and crushed the forces of hostility and oppression. It is a time to declare our gratitude to those who give heart and inspiration to the convictions that keep America and other nations free. Memorial Day is a time to thank God for placing such individuals among us.

Though it was initiated as a special moment for decorating gravesites, it is equally appropriate on Memorial Day to pay homage to the living, the nearly 27 million veterans who are our family, our friends, our neighbors. However, a meaningful acknowledgement of their service goes well beyond grateful nods or ceremonial fanfare.

The entire system of veterans' benefits and services carries with it a message that we will not allow the deeds and sacrifices of our veterans to be brushed aside or relegated to some dark corner of history. When national resources are allocated, the individual who shouldered the heaviest burden of citizenship — the veteran — deserves the position at the front of the line.

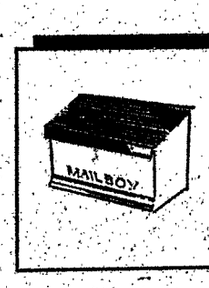
Veterans' benefits constitute partial payment of our greatest national debt. Maintaining this payment in the face of indifference or shifting priorities is increasingly difficult but no less important than it was upon the conclusion of each of this century's wars. There still are veterans who suffer daily from the physical and psychological disabilities they incurred in service.

There still are veterans in need of the specialized medical care provided by VA — prosthetics, physical and vocational rehabilitation for blind and other veterans, treatment for spinal-cord injury and post-traumatic stress. There still are indigent veterans with no place to turn but the VA. There still are thousands of unemployed veterans living on the streets who need to be linked with the innovative homeless assistance initiatives administered by VA. And there will be waves of new veterans who will need jobs, housing, education and other transition assistance as we reduce our Armed Forces. VA and the services it provides are as vital now, even more so, as when it was established 63 years ago.

During a recent trip to several military installations, I had the opportunity to meet with a number of recruits, only days into their initial training. It struck me as I chatted with them that these are the same young faces, the same eager, confident, and idealistic souls who presented us with such a proud heritage, from Lexington to the Persian Gulf. They may one day be the warriors. They will certainly one day be the veterans. They too deserve our attention and gratitude on Memorial Day for accepting the same responsibilities, hardships and, perhaps, ordeals of their forebears.

However you choose to spend Memorial Day, if only for a moment, take stock of your blessings and consider other images. Mortar bursts and snipers. Children playing among the rubble. Zigzag sprints for the temporary safety of the next street corner. Families hiding in the forest. Fights for food dropped from the sky. Torture and murder incited by religious and cultural intolerance.

There is no uncertainty about America's tomorrow. We will be free. We will be strong. We will still be the beacon to the world. The men and women who have honorably worn a military uniform assured it. And we all should embrace their wonderful legacy with all the fervor we can muster. Every day.



LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Support personnel need raises — not teachers

Dear Editor,

I must clear up some misunderstandings which may have resulted from your May 27 article about the Bay-Waveland School Board meeting.

I spoke to the school board about the pay scale of the district's support personnel (secretaries, paraprofessionals, cafeteria workers, custodians and bus drivers), not teachers. The board has already approved an increase for teachers who are quite happy with it at present.

The words attributed to me in the box inside the article were never said by me or by anyone else. The closest that I came to it was when I asked the board to consider that, as one of only three Coast cities with a casino, we don't have to think poor anymore. We don't have to pay the lowest salaries, or even in the middle; we could have the highest paid workers for a change.

Although the non-certified personnel were given a 7 percent increase in January, their salaries after five years experience are as follows: paraprofessional — $8,025, secretary — 7.38 per hour, maintenance - $7.34, custodian — 5.31, bus driver - $3,800, food service — $6.32, $6.48 or $6.58, depending on position.

The January increase was a welcome one, but with the city willing to give some casino revenue to the school district, these salaries can and should be further improved.

Classroom supplies and other district needs can also benefit from the added revenue. With teacher supplement increases budgeted from ad valorem revenue, the city can now give the money intended for teachers to the district for other needs.

Our group, the Bay-Waveland Unified Educators, more than 100 teachers and education support personnel, was formed to try to help the district avoid some of the pitfalls that we know from past experience can destroy a quest for excellence.

The district very much needs to develop respect for the knowledge and a belief in the value of its personnel, commitment to providing the time and resources people need to do a good job, a firm set of standards for student discipline and academic performance with a willingness to adhere to them, and an understanding that the power to attain excellence can only come from all of us working together in agreement on our goals.

The issue of the city money and support personnel salaries has become unnecessarily divisive. We trust that district officials will put aside their differences with the city, sit down with the council and lawyers, and find a legal way to accept the money.

Until then, the issue is just in the way of the real work we need to do to offer Bay-Waveland children the best education possible.

Sincerely yours,
Peggy Dutton

Diamondhead residents are losers in election turmoil

To the Editor,

I would like to respond to the article in the Sea Coast Echo by Liz Haas Thursday, May 27.

To the newspaper and Board of Directors of Diamondhead, I have a couple of points to make. In the 4½ years I have resided here I have never heard or seen so many mean, hateful and dishonest things being done to former friends and neighbors.

Since the board has the petitions, who but the board could be harrassing those who signed by fabrications about how and why they could be sued for signing the petition?

They are encouraging people to remove their names so they won't be sued. If our board is representing us in a professional and business-like manner — what do you say about this intimidation that several families here have told us happened to them?

We only need 5 percent of the membership to sign a petition to have a recall election, therefore it was not necessary to use all the petition signatures we received — even many that were faxed to us from out-of-town, part-time residents. So if they are trying to lower the 5 percent so as not to have this election, we shall simply turn in these many additional signatures.

The reason our finances are better than ever — as in fact they are — is we have had our monthly assessments raised to $42.50 from $30, an additional $5 for security and $7.50 for fire protection.

The board took all previous board's financial support away from our fire department (in the amount of $114,000 this year) and put it on our shoulders.

They increased our golf fees, and closed or leased our eating facilities that were a part of the amenities of Diamondhead. The Yacht and Country Club lost money in the past, but remained available to us because of revenues made from snowbird golfers.

It may not mean a thing to our board, but the people I came across on a daily basis are almost 100 percent dissatisfied with what the board has done, and the way they have treated us.

With the division the board has caused in Diamondhead, no matter who wins this recall election, this will never again be the nice, caring community it was just one short year ago. We are all losers with what has happened here in Diamondhead.

Mrs. Sylvia Smith
Diamondhead

The agenda will be a work session on the 1993-94 budget.

Diet

She suggests making small changes and rewarding yourself for your progress with something other than food.

"For example, substitute eating an apple instead of a bag of chips," she said.

"Keeping a food diet can be your best tool because you can identify when you eat, where you eat the most and why. The TV may be an area where you eat a lot of fat, so you can decide to only eat fruit in front of the TV," she said.

Andry said, "Support groups are available if that helps you."

Chevis said, "Many people find that programs like Weight Watchers works because you have a group of your peers looking over your shoulder."

Andry said the easiest way to reduce your weight is to reduce your fat intake which will in turn reduce your caloric intake.

"This is an effective way if you make it a life-time change," she said.

She said for healthy eating, normally no more than 30 percent of total calories should come from fat. To lose weight, the average woman should consume 20-30 grams of fat a day, and the average man should consume 40-60 grams of fat a day.

Andry said the most important thing to do is to listen to your body, and if you are hungry have a snack, but make it a healthy choice.

Chevis said small frequent meals, three to four times a day, with plenty of fruits, vegetables and baked or broiled lean meat may be better than three large meals a day that leave you full and lacking energy.

EXERCISE

Andry said a diet must be tailored to your specific needs and a big factor in any diet is exercise.

"Exercise is the key in effectively losing body fat, toning muscle and improving your cardio-vascular system," she said.

She said the body is able to metabolize carbohydrates faster, and with exercise, it can more effectively burn fat.

Andry said, "There is no other natural way to increase your metabolism than to exercise."

She recommends those who can should walk 3-4 days a week.

"Start at a comfortable pace and add to that.

"Set activity goals to increase your activity level," she said.

Chevis said the three safest exercises are walking, bicycling and swimming.

"They are easy on the joints and are excellent exercises," he said, "People with arthritis and extreme obesity can swim."

He recommends doing a little everyday or at least three times a day.

"For exercise to do any good in a weight loss program, you need to do it 30-45 minutes almost continually three times a week," he said.

NEW PRODUCTS

Andry said there are a load of new products on the market for low fat and low calorie foods.

"Some are good and can be worked into a healthy diet, but you need to use them wisely," she said, "Don't gorge out on them because they're low in fat or calories because that defeats the whole purpose."

"Moderation is the key in a successful weight-loss and weight-maintenance program," she said.

She suggests reading labels to find out what you are putting into your body.

"Be picky because it's your body and your health," she said.

Andry said the most important thing is to not be dictated by social stigmas.

"If you're happy with yourself and your weight does not cause you any medical problems, then that's great," she said.

The American Dietetic Association has a toll-free number, 1-800-366-1655, to order brochures on healthy eating or to ask questions concerning your health.

Anyone with medical problems like heart problems or who are extremely obese should consult a physician or registered dietician before beginning any weight loss or exercise program.

County limits trash

By order of the state Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) and the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), the county Standard dump cannot accept specific items.

These items include, baby diapers, oil or oil cans, paint cans, household garbage, any type of chemicals, medical supplies, dead animals, fish, whole tires and creosote timbers.

Should EPA or DEQ inspections reveal these items within landfill materials the county could be subject to fines up to $25,000 per day.

Landfill foreman Otis "Curly" Lewis reported residents hide non-acceptable items among acceptable items when delivering trash to the dump.

He requests resident assistance in keep the landfill legal.

Lewis also reported the county has authorized refusal of trash from any vehicle without a Hancock license plate.

Those able to prove trash being delivered to Standard by an out-of-county tagged vehicle is actually Hancock originated, may obtain a permit from the county north barn in Kiln, on Highway 43, west of Highway 603.

Nutrition facts help consumers with labels

By Linda S. Moore
MSU Information Service

Nutrition specialists and dietitians have examined the new food labeling regulations carefully, and most agree the long-term health benefits will be worth the effort and costs involved.

"The key to whether or not the new labels are worth it will be determined by how well consumers use the labels," said Dr. Barbara McLaurin, human nutrition specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. "If consumers pay attention and use them to determine their diet needs, then the health benefits will be there."

McLaurin said the new labels will probably influence food producers to make healthier products.

"Americans needed some standardization of the descriptors—or short statements implying health benefits such as light or reduced fat," she said. "Additionally, the new regulations will monitor health claims where a specific health benefit is acknowledged such as those promising calcium to combat osteoporosis or fiber as a cancer deterrent."

The new label requirements are estimated to cost the food industry about $1.4 billion to $2.3 billion. The cost to the government to write the regulations, analyze commments and monitor the program is estimated at around $160 million.

Consumers' benefits in terms of reduced health care needs if they adjust their diets because of the label is valued at $4.4 billion.

Darlene Shook, Food and Drug Administration public affairs specialist for the New Orleans district, recently explained some of the changes at a meeting of the Mississippi Dietetics Association.

Definitions of serving sizes have been a problem in the past. Manufacturers could reduce the size to something less than a normal person would consume and make it look like a lower calorie product," Shook said.

"FDA has created a standardized list of just about every food product and mandated a serving size based on the amount of normal person would consume."

Shook said the new listing of a product's daily value percentage for nutrients will improve consumers' understanding of what their body is getting from a product.

While former food labels may have given the amount of fat content as 3 grams, consumers would not have known that is 5 percent of the acceptable daily amount of fat with a daily 2,000 calorie diet.

In addition to breaking down the contained nutrient amounts and percentages of daily values, each label will contain a standard daily value of total fat, saturated fat, cholesterol, sodium, carbohydrates and fiber.

The amounts of each item will be broken out for 2,000 and 2,500 calorie daily diets. Each label also will list how many calories per gram are in fat, carbohydrates and protein.

Shook told the dietitians that food marketers will have to

Biloxi Summer Fest features local talent

A new location, a greater variety of music, an expanded children's village and Coast food favorites await visitors to the 1993 Biloxi Summer Music & Art Fest June 12-13.

"With the changes planned for this year, we are offering the highest quality outdoor entertainment program available on the Mississippi Coast," said Colleen Read of Bay St. Louis, promoter of the popular jazz rock and R&B festival for the past two years.

Read's first two productions enjoyed successful runs at Point Cadet. This year's event will be held on the Biloxi Town Green, a more centralized location, in conjunction with the Wooden Boat Show planned for the same weekend near the Biloxi Yacht Club.

Headline acts include Capitol recording artist and Grammy Award-winning Delbert McClinton, Charmaine Neville, George Porter of the Meters, Bigga, former backup band to Bob Marley, local favorites Change to Eden, and Knifewing, who performed at the most recent Farm Aid benefit.

"Again we are offering a more divergent musical mix with Delbert McClinton and a wide range of jazz, rock, reggae, R&B and Latin sounds," said Read.

CHILDREN'S VILLAGE

One of the highlights of the festival is the children's village, which includes live performances, art contests and creative exhibitions. Also offered is the largest outdoor display of Coast artistic talent.

Bay Senior High Art I and II students, under the direction of teacher Joida Evans, are contributing six murals depicting various themes.

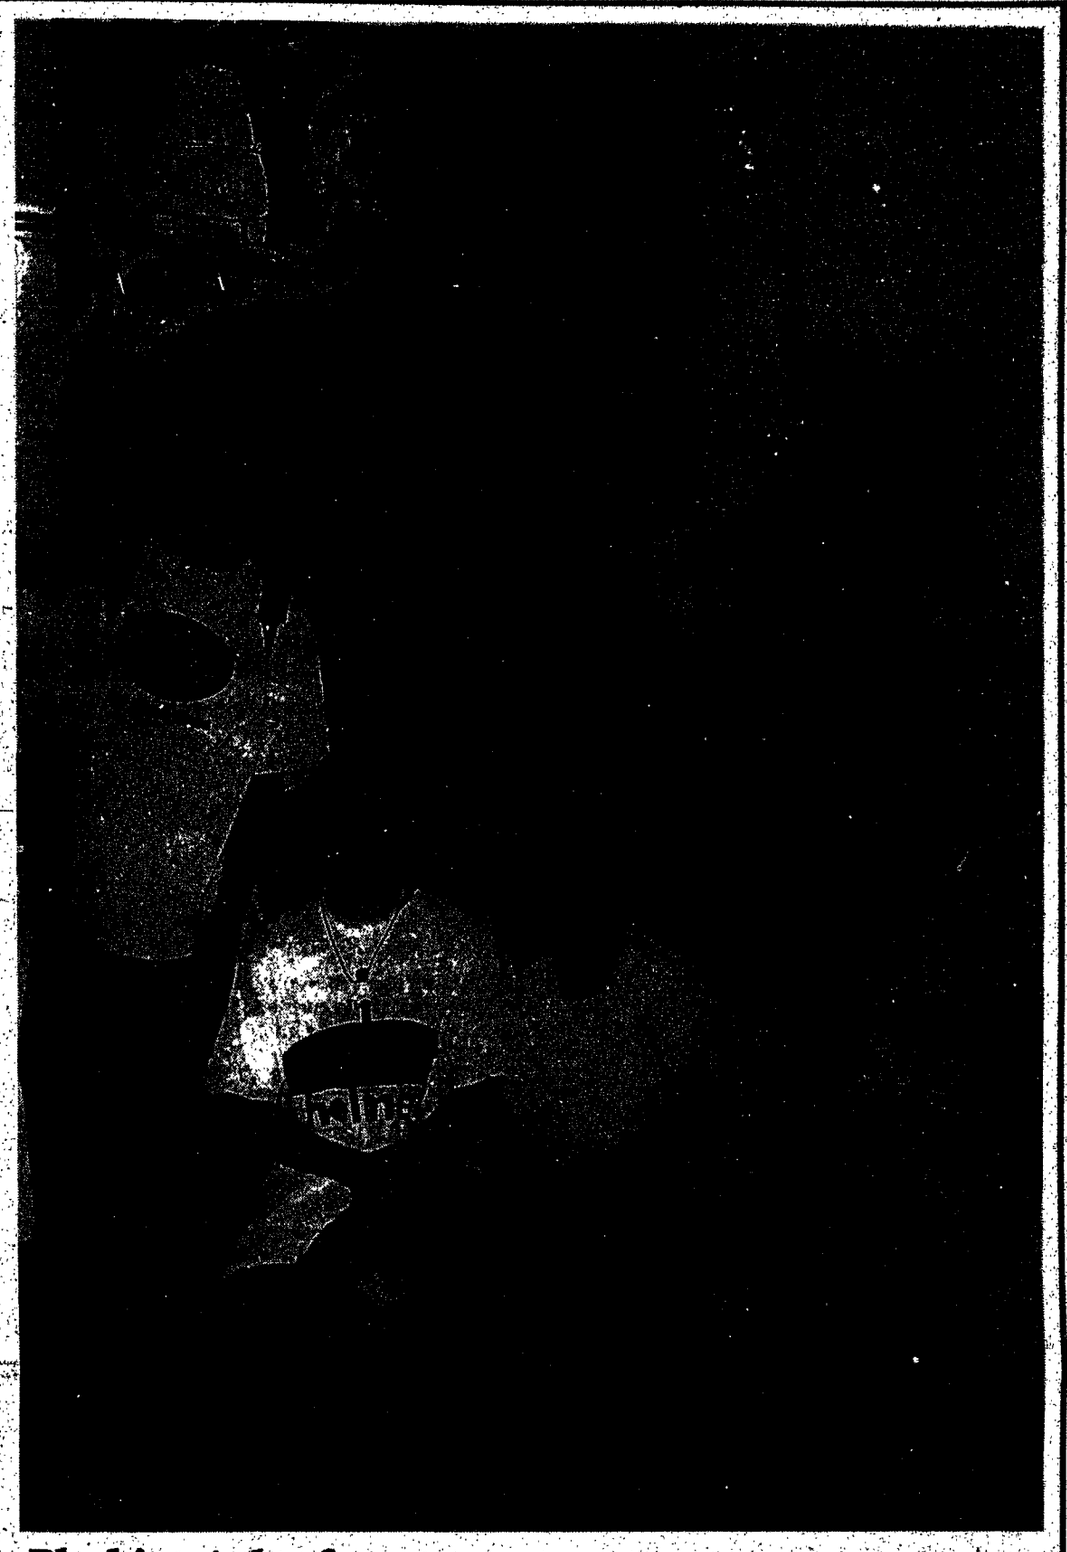
Kirk Albright, a 1992 BHS graduate, was contacted by the festival's art chairman because they liked his work last year, said Evans. He is painting murals to enter this year also.

"Our eclectic collection this year truly represents the impressive advances currently underway in the Coast art community," said Read.

The list of musical performers includes Irie Vibrations, Entourage, the Carl Leblanc Band, La Santiago, Percussion Inc., Woodenhead, and the St. Rose de Lima Gospel Choir.

Specially discounted advance tickets to the two-day weekend festival are available at Trendsetters in Bay St. Louis and the Chuck Kelley Salon in Gulfport.

For more information, contact Image Productions at 467-1534 or 897-1798, or the City of Biloxi at 435-6294.



Phobias take form

Peebles takes first place in art contest

Shawn Peebles, seventh grade student at Bay High School, was the grand prize winner for his grade at the 1993 Children in the Arts Contest, sponsored by Coast Episcopal Schools and Pepsi Cola Bottling Company.

Theme of the contest was 'Imagining the Future.' Peebles painted his vision of heaven in water and crayon resist.

Kacey Edwards and Wendell Humphres received honorary mention for the seventh grade. Edwards produced a silhouette of mankind full of plans for the future using line and pattern with colored markers and spattered paint background. Humphres' composition focused on an exploding earth, getting action with cut paperwork, line and watercolor.

A reception was held at Winfield Gallery in Gulfport for the participants. Savings bonds and certificates were awarded. Participating students enjoyed workshops throughout the day with Coast artists.

Read a lot at library's 'Camp Read-A-Lot'

Registration is still open for "Camp Read-A-Lot," this year's summer reading program, sponsored by the Hancock County Public Library System, according to Prima Plauche', library system director.

Pre-registration for the program, which is open to children pre-school age through eighth grade, will last through Saturday, June 5. The program will run through July 15.

The program will be held at all three branches of the system — the Kiln Library on Tuesdays at 1:30 p.m., the City-County Public Library on Wednesdays at 10:30 a.m. and the Waveland Library on Thursdays at 10:30 a.m.

Participants must visit a library at least four times during the program and check out at least six books. To validate each visit, they must get a sticker placed on their reading record.

A certificate and goodie bag will be awarded each participant who completes four visits to the library and reads at least six books. Merit stars will also be presented for every five books read beyond the basid goal of six books. Awards will be presented the week of July 12.

Activities scheduled during the program include visits by Ronald McDonald and Buttercup the Clown, an animal show, puppet and magic shows, crafts, NASA space show, face painting, and much more.

In order to register, children must come to the branch nearest them, complete their reading record, set their goal and confirm their parents have a current library card.

Further information on the program may be obtained by contacting Sandra Ladner, Kiln Library, 255-1724; Evelyn Necaise, Waveland Library, 467-9240; or Myra Haynes, City-County Library, 467-5282.

Murtaghs celebrate 50th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Edward David Murtagh Jr. of Bay St. Louis [illegible] ir 50th wedding anniversary Sunday, May 16.

Married at Our Lady of the Gulf Church in Bay St. Louis on May 16, 1943, Mrs. Beryl Elizabeth Murtagh was a Bourgeois prior to her marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward David Murtagh Jr.

The couple renewed their marriage vows at Hancock County Civic Center with their eight children, 14 grandchildren, two great-grandchildren and many friends in attendance.

Attendants for the couple were Alice Gail Thames, Mrs. Murtagh's original bridesmaid, and David Murtagh.

The Rev. Gregory Johnson performed the marriage renewal ceremony.

A reception at the civic center followed the service.

The reception was given by children of the couple and their spouses, Beth and Joe Goellner; Mary Doug and Sidney Chevis; Evelyn and Gary Yarborough; Alice Anne and Tommy Meadows; Theresa and Jeff Willson; Abbie and Douglas Hearn; David and Denise Murtagh; and Carrie and Timothy Harrison.

Brunch and a cake adorned with the original bride and groom cake top were served at the reception. Decorations included a display of the bride's wedding dress, going-away "honeymoon" dress, photos, original newspaper article, magnolias, gardenias and 50 gold balloons with white ribbons.

Mr. Murtagh is the Hancock County Tax Assessor. Mrs. Murtagh works at the county Child Development Center in Bay St. Louis.

Great Books

Discussion group meets Thursday at library

The Great Books Discussion group will begin its fifth season Thursday, June 3, at 2 p.m. in the meeting room of the City-County Public Library, 312 Hwy. 90, Bay St. Louis.

The first session will begin with a discussion of the Book of Ecclesiates. Among the other 14 selections to be explored include Sophocles' Oedipus the King, Dante's Inferno, Flaubert's A Simple Heart and Freud's On Dreams.

New participants are welcome at any time to the bi-weekly groups. Discussion is guided by two trained leaders — laymen, not experts — who encourage the group to think about problems of meaning in the great books by raising questions. Participants are expected to have read the material in advance so they may join in the discussion.

There is also a shorter ongoing discussion of Mississippi fiction writers as taken from Reflections of Childhood and Youth available in the library.

The readings are also available in the library or personal copies may be ordered at very nominal costs. There is no charge for participation.

The Great Books Foundation is an independent, non-profit educational corporation. In a Great Books reading and discussion group, adults meet informally to read, consider and discuss some of the best books written in the past 2,500 years. Meetings last approximately two hours.

Further information on the meeting can be obtained by contacting Richard McCollough at 467-6333, or Janice Parrott at the library at 467-5282.

MILITARY MENTIONS

MARK SANTALLA

Mark D. Santalla, former Hancock County resident and 1983 Hancock North Central High School graduate, has been selected for the Navy's Nuclear Enlisted Commissioning Program.

The program selects active duty enlisted personnel from the nuclear power program who have demonstrated continued outstanding performance and excellent academic achievement in the Navy.

The Navy's NECP provides the opportunity for Santalla to attend college on a full—time basis while still being able to maintain his active duty status in the Navy. He has maintained a 3.83 GPA at Auburn University where he is studying mechanical engineering.

Upon completion, Santalla will become a commissioned officer and continue training in the Navy's nuclear power program. He originally enlisted in the Navy in May 1984 and re-enlisted to continue his career.

Santalla is the son of Vincent Santalla of Waveland and Mrs. Edna Mejia of Cutoff Ln.

MASTER CHIEF PETTY OFFICER HUST

Daniel A. Hust of Bay St. Louis was recently promoted to the highest enlisted rank for enlisted men in the U.S. Navy. The 20-year Navy veteran is currently assigned to the USS Stout (DDG-55) Precommissioning Unit at Pascagoula.

He is married to the former Cynthia E. Richard, daughter of Junius and Loretta Braud of Bay St. Louis. They have four children, Daniel Allen Jr., Danielle Marie, Jean-Paul (J.P.), and Brandon Lee. They reside in Springwood Park, Bay St. Louis.

Garden Park lab accredited

The laboratory at Garden Park Community Hospital has been awarded a two-year accreditation by the Commission on Laboratory Accreditation of the College of American Pathologists based on results of a recent on-site inspection.

Laboratory director Dr. Philip Saccoccia Jr. was advised of the national recognition and congratulated for the "excellence of the services being provided." The laboratory at Garden Park is one of the more than 4,200 CAP-accredited laboratories nationwide.

Local persons employed in the laboratory are Blood Bank supervisor Fran Seal MT (ASCP) and Sandra Harvey MT (ASCP) of Pass Christian and Helen Scaffidi, phlebotonist, of Bay St. Louis.

Coastal Family Health announces new officers

The Coastal Family Health Center announces the election of a new slate of officers to head the organization's board of directors for the next year.

They include:

Russell Heidelburg, board president; Jane Bennett, vice president; Dora Faison, secretary; and Christopher Moore, treasurer.

Also elected were two at-large members: Brian Quave and Karlyn Stephens.

The Coastal Family Health Center is a private, non-profit organization which operates five clinics along the Mississippi Gulf Coast area. These clinics are in Biloxi, Gulfport, Saucier, Vancleave and Hancock. In cooperation with the Sisters of Mercy, the center also operates a mobile health unit which travels to sites in need of health care throughout the area.

The center has been in operation since 1978. In 1992, Coastal Family Health Center served over 22,000 patients through 86,000 patient care visits.

The center offers health and dental care and accepts Medicaid, Medicare and insurance. Self-pay patients are charged on a sliding fee scale basis based on their ability to pay.

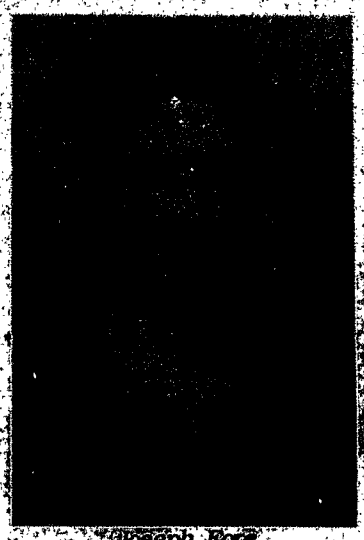
CEHS 24th commencement held at Trinity Episcopal Church

Coast Episcopal High School held its 24th annual commencement exercises at Trinity Church in Pass Christian Friday, May 28 at 8 p.m.

Eleven students will receive diplomas. They are Margot Caso Artigues, Joseph Russell Fore, George Obaid Hlass, Penelope Blair Lambert, Eric Roger Victorian Masse', Ellen McRaney, Melissa Paige Mizell, Jennifer Lowe Robertson, Dawna Eileen Shinkle, Kristin Marie Torguson and Megan McDonald Uram.

Margot Artigues

Margot Caso Artigues is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Juan Jose Caso of Washington, D.C. and Guatemala. She has been a student at Coast Episcopal for one year, having transferred from Sidwell Friends School in Washington. She received the highest honor plaques at Coast Episcopal this year in English and technical writing and received the library service award.



Joseph Fore

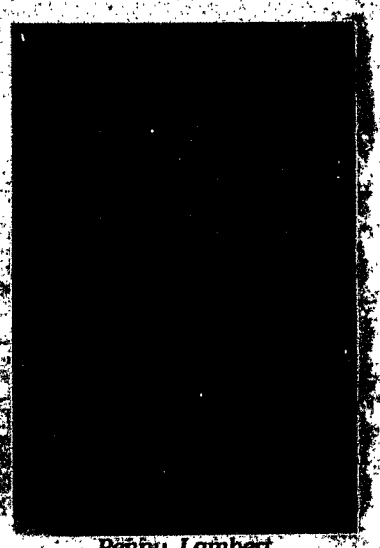
Joseph Russell Fore is the son of Mrs. Linda Fore of Gulfport. He has been a student at Coast Episcopal for two years, having transferred from Harrison Central High School. Last year he was named most valuable player and outstanding offensive player on the varsity basketball team. He plans to attend college out of state.

George Hlass

George Obaid Hlass is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hlass of Long Beach. He has attended Coast Episcopal for six years. An honor roll student, he is a member of the National Honor Society, Mu Alpha Theta, SADD, the French Club, and Who's Who Among American High School Students. He has been vice-president of his class for the last two years and has lettered in basketball, track, tennis and soccer.

For the past two years Hlass has received the outstanding defensive player award in basketball and has been named to the All-District team. This year he received the U.S. Army Reserve scholar-athlete award.

Hlass plans to attend the University of Florida and major in business administration or accounting.



Penny Lambert

Penelope Blair Lambert is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Lambert of Pass Christian. She has attended Coast Episcopal since the seventh grade. Lambert has been president of her class for the past three years, a member of the annual staff for two years, and a cheerleader for four years.

She is a member of SADD and the German Club and is listed in Who's Who. She has been on the softball and volleyball teams and was a homecoming maid in her freshman and senior years.

Lambert plans to attend either LSU or Millsaps and will study marketing and accounting.

Eric Masse'

Eric Roger Victorin Masse' is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alain Masse' of Saint-Remy, France. Mr. and Mrs. Michael Carron of Bay St. Louis are his American family. Masse' attended art and drama school in France for three years until his graduation last year. An honor roll student at CEHS, he plans to attend the University of Bordeaux, where he will major in drama and audiovisual studies.

Ellen McRaney

Ellen McRaney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike McRaney of Ocean Springs, has attended Coast Episcopal since the seventh grade. She has been president of the National Honor Society and the German Club and was co-editor of the yearbook for two years.

She is a member of Mu Alpha Theta, SADD and Who's Who. Last year McRaney received the Bausch and Lomb Award, the Sewanee Book of Excellence Award and the Martha Guild Glue Ribbon Award.

She attended Mississippi Governor's School and the Presidential Classroom. This year McRaney was Gulfport Exchange Club student of the month, the CEHS DAR Good Citizen, and won the Voice of Democracy contest.

She was awarded the Herff-Jones Principal's Award. She played varsity tennis for five years and has been a student council representative.

McRaney was selected Coast Episcopal's 1993 Star Student and is valedictorian of her graduating class. She plans to attend Millsaps College and will study physical therapy.

Missy Mizell

Melissa Paige Mizell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Mizell of Diamondhead. She has attended CEHS since the first grade.

Mizell has been treasurer of her class for the past six years and was president of the French Club last year. She is a member of Mu Alpha Theta and Who's Who.

Mizell attended the Presidential Classroom and Ole Miss Leadership Conferences this year. She played basketball for two years and has been a cheerleader for five years. She was co-captain of the cheerleaders her sophomore year and captain her junior and senior years.

She was named outstanding cheerleader for the past two years and plans to attend LSU and major in communication disorders.

Jennifer Lowe Robertson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robertson of Pass Christian. She attended Leonardtown High School in Maryland for three years and transferred to Coast Episcopal for her final year of high school. She played softball and tennis and was a cheerleader for three years.

Jennifer Robertson

Robertson has been a member of the French Club for four years and the Latin Club for two years. She has been Coast Episcopal's student director on the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce. She was a student council representative and a member of the newspaper staff. She plans to attend the University of Alabama.

Preparing for life after high school

By Linda S. Moore
MSU Information Services

All year high school seniors have completed "last time" opportunities with mixed emotions — the last time to play high school ball, the last band contest, the last science fair project.

While graduation marks the end of one chapter in life, it marks the beginning for a wide range of new opportunities.

Graduation is a good chance for seniors to put the past into perspective by appreciating accomplishments and learning from failures, said Dr. Ann Jarratt, a 4-H youth development specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

This is a good time to look back to see things that didn't go well and work on those areas," Jarratt said. "We all should learn from personal experiences. The past is a good teacher."

The specialist said in any new venture there is a risk of failure. The key is in determining if the desired outcome is worth the risks.

Jarratt said by evaluating strengths and weaknesses, graduates can set realistic goals for their future.

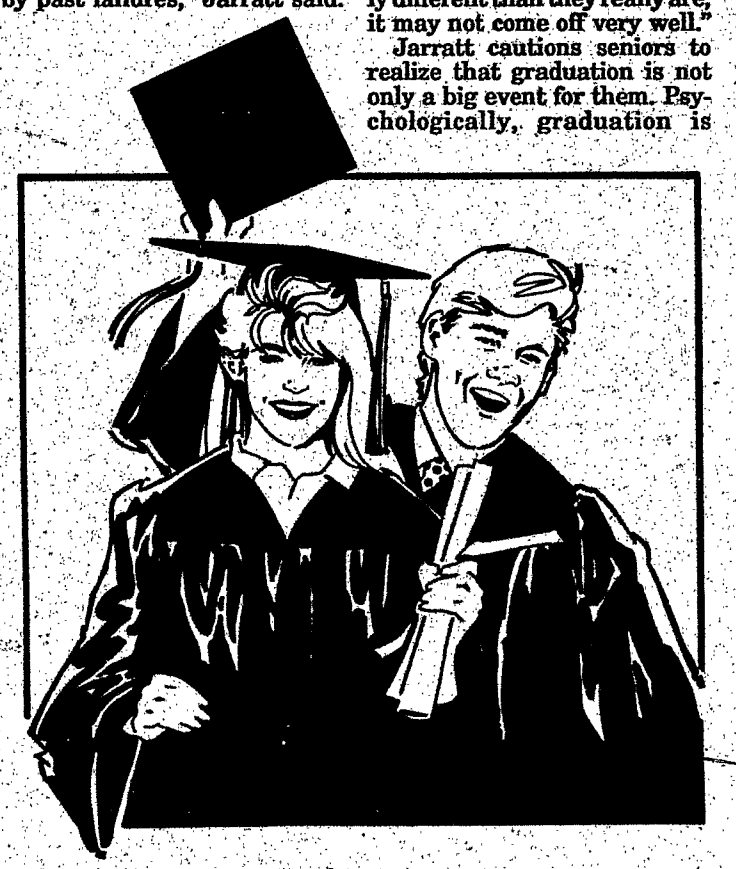
Realistic goal-setting can help raise a student's self esteem that has been lowered by past failures," Jarratt said.

When debating college or an immediate career after graduation, Jarratt recommends seniors determine if the short-term benefits or if the long-range goals are more important. She said one factor graduates may want to consider is that a person with a four-year college degree can expect to make $672 more a month than a person with only a high school diploma.

Leaving high school behind often means a drastic change in friends and environment, which provides the chance to personally improve in some areas without being locked into one expected behavior.

"A new setting is always an opportunity to try new behaviors," Jarratt said. "The danger is if a person tries to be totally different than they really are; it may not come off very well."

Jarratt cautions seniors to realize that graduation is not only a big event for them. Psychologically, graduation is tough on the parents of seniors too. She said young people often don't understand the separation anxiety parents are feeling.



She said to achieve long-range goals, such as a college diploma, graduates must first consider short-term goals, such as a realistic major and serious study time for about four years. Visualizing success through a positive attitude is an important step in the goal-setting process.

She said the experiences that graduation brings — memories of past failures, leaving friends behind, leaving parents for college — should not cause guilt feelings.

Johnson, Labat are Bay High valedictorian, salutatorian

Megan Johnson has been named Bay High School's valedictorian and Jennifer Labat, salutatorian, according to principal Roger James. The announcement was made during an awards ceremony May 18.

Johnson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Ladner of Waveland and Mr. Donith Johnson of Vicksburg, Miss. Her grade point average for four years of high school is 4.45.

She has received valedictorian scholarships to Pearl River Community College and Delta State University. She was also awarded the Herff Jones scholarship, Merchants Bank scholarship, the American Legion Post 139 Ladies Auxiliary scholarship, a presidential excellence scholarship to William Carey College, and a dean's scholarship to Pearl River Community College.

Megan Johnson

Johnson's academic awards include the Army Reserve national scholar/athlete award and the presidential academic fitness award. She was selected as a semi-finalist in the Coca Cola national scholarship program and received the school's female athlete award.

Johnson is a two-year member of the National Honor Society and a four-year member of the student council, serving as president this year. She is also a member of DECA, YMCA (youth legislative group), Students Against Driving Drunk and the Spanish Club.
